INTRINSYC SELECTED TO PRESENT AT COMDEX VENTURE FORUM

October 29, 1997. Intrinsyc Software Inc. is pleased to announce that it has been chosen to present to the international financial community at the prestigious Comdex Venture Forum in Las Vegas, November 17-18. Intrinsyc joins a select group of 38 information technology (IT) companies who were chosen from among hundreds of applicants worldwide. The Red Herring Magazine editorial team, which sponsors this annual event, selected these companies as having the most promising technologies in their markets. For more information on Intrinsyc's participation at this event, visit The Red Herring web site at http://www.herring.com/events/comdex/companies.html.

Billed as one of the premier international venture capital forums, the Comdex Venture Forum features leading IT industry executives, marketplace reviews from industry watchers and analysts, and presentations from the most innovative emerging companies. This exclusive forum includes a worldwide audience of venture capitalists, investment bankers, and technology company executives. IT analysts, financiers and investors are invited to register for this event. The cost is US$1295.

"The Comdex Venture Forum provides a unique opportunity to introduce the international financial community to Intrinsyc's technology, products, and business model. At the Comdex Convention, Intrinsyc will be exhibiting its new web technology for Windows CE based consumer electronics products, with its strategic partners. This forum enables us to clearly demonstrate our full business potential," stated Derek Spratt, Intrinsyc's President & CEO.
